

Midlands Military Meet and Rendezvous

2011 EVENT POSTPONED

After much deliberation the Midlands Military Meet and Rendezvous Committee have decided to postpone this year's event.

The reasons for the change are related to two other events that are being held in 2011 that would have impacted on both participant and visitor attendance.

Those events are the Bi annual Barwon Park event in Victoria and the Anglesea Barracks 200th Anniversary event in Hobart.

The Committee is aware that participants finance their own participation in events like ours. Having two large events in the one year would in all likelihood affect both events. By moving the MMM&R to 2012 it will be from that year forward on alternate years to the Barwon Park event.

The significant Anglesea Barracks milestone will be held on the 2nd and 3rd of December 2011. This event will involve Tasmanian living history clubs and collectors in support of the Australian Army. This event would in all likelihood have impacted on visitor participation at the MMM&R given they are only a few days apart and again impacted on our Tasmanian participants. Additionally the Australian Army would not be in a position to support the MMM&R.

We look forward to seeing you at Campbell Town in November 2012
